

In this issue

Case Report

Open Access Case Report PTZAID:OJH-7-111

Upper Gastrointestinal Bleeding Revealing a Hepatic Hydatid Cyst Complicated by Portal Hypertension Syndrome: A Case Report

Published On: April 26, 2025 | Pages: 001 - 004

Author(s): Abderrahmane Jallouli*, Nidale Laghfiri, Mouna El Bouatmani, Oussama Nacir, Fatimaezzahra Lairani, Adil Ait Errami, Sofia Oubaha, Zouhour Samlani and Khadija Krati

Liver or Hepatic Hydatid Cyst (LHC/HHC) is a benign parasitic disease common in endemic regions such as the Mediterranean basin and North Africa, caused by Echinococcus granulosus. While hepatic hydatid cysts are prevalent, complications such as Portal Hypertension (PH) associated with this pathology are rare. We present the case of a 39-year-old male from a rural area ...

Abstract View Full Article View DOI: 10.17352/ojh.000011